It is a truth universally acknowledged that all hotel professionals aspiring to make a rewarding career in hospitality sector must work towards acquiring a valuable and a meaningful international experience. Complementing a hotel professional's ability to be conversant in multiple foreign languages, his/her knack in being well-versed with diverse cultural codes and acquiring managerial techniques in different locations of the world is indeed an ideal combination. This is what makes a complete manager.

In keeping with this philosophy, the Vatel International Business School – Hotel and Tourism Management, headquartered in Lyon, France encourages global experience and provides several opportunities of student-exchange.

Marco Polo is a unique platform in which students get the opportunity of clubbing their 6 months' Student-Exchange Program with additional 6 months' internship in any one of their campuses that offers Marco Polo program. The program therefore allows a student to pursue one full semester and work in a foreign country for a complete year.

Testimonial by one of our student under Marco Polo program

Meeting, learning, cooking, playing with students and getting to know valuable facts about their culture and language has been an unforgettable experience for me. Says Nakul Bhatia, one of the students who first did his Exchange program at the Vatel institute in Nimes, south of France and conducted his internship at the Relais Chateau in Brussels, Belgium.
