As I welcome my dear students and the readers of HOSPITIUM to the exciting and the rapidly growing world of hospitality, I wish to declare that our endeavor will always be, besides giving to the students all the essential pedagogical inputs within the classrooms, laboratories and restaurants of the college's premises, also allow them several opportunities to get a hands-on exposure in the trade at hotels and service establishments of repute within the country and abroad.

We will equally make sure that these students groom themselves as pleasing personalities, indeed with the attributes of true, qualified and professional hoteliers. We at the Vatel Hotel & Tourism Business School firmly believe in the fact that our students, by virtue of their multi-faceted exposure at the Vatel Hotel & Tourism Business School, will also understand and appreciate the cultures, values and philosophies of peoples from the different parts of the world.

I convey my best regards to all.

Dr. Saurav Chhabra

As we move on to the eleventh edition of HOSPITIUM, we have thought of giving it a turn by transforming it into a totally student-oriented magazine. We are of the opinion that the students must also express their true sentiments about how they feel being a part of a progressive university and indeed of a very fine and a well-chosen hospitality course.

Students form the true image of the institute and whatever they say or write about comes straight from their hearts. All these comments by the students are in the original form, without any inputs from the faculty members.

We are sure you will enjoy reading them and will feel elated about the excellent work these students have put in and have been instrumental in making the Vatel India School, what it deserved to be.

Best regards to all.

Kulmohan Singh
